Dallas Man Is Killed At Lake Lavon Saturday

Luther Otis Sanders, 31, of 1318 Fourth Street, Dallas, was killed and his brother, Charley Sanders of Dallas, wounded in a dispute which occurred at Lake Lavon Saturday afternoon.

The wounded man was brought to the City-County Hospital under police guard. He was reported wounded in the thigh.

Engineer Hassel L. Holder, at Lake Lavon, who did the shooting, according to District Attorney Dwight Whitwell, was not arrested. Whitwell indicated he thought Holder acted in self-defense and no charges against him would be filed.

According to Whitwell, the dispute began when the Sanders brothers drove past the engineer's office "at a high rate of speed." Holder and Walter Webb, his assistant, followed them to a parking area and attemtped to talk to them.

The brothers followed Holder and Webb back to the office and the fight broke out there. Holder shot three times from a .25-caliber pistol, Whitwell said. One bullet struck Luther Sanders in the right chest and, Whitwell said, he died instantly. Another hit Charley in the side.

Funeral services for Sanders were held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Richardson Assembly of God Church, conducted by Rev. W. G. Glidwell, with interment in Restland Cemetery.

He was born March 4, 1924 in Tennessee, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanders. He was a veteran of World War II.

Sanders of Tennessee; his wife and two children, Bobby and Luther Sanders Jr., all of Dallas; five brothers: Roy, Alvin, Wilson and Charley Sanders, all of Dallas; and Horace Sanders, of Oklahoma; and four sisters: Mrs. Ellen Jackson and Mrs. Mollie Edwards, both of Oklahoma; Mrs. Ruby Morgan, of Dallas and Mrs. Margie Godsey of Germany.

"Dairying Is Big Business" In Collin County, Says Mantooth

Ross Mantooth, prominent cattle breeder and dairyman of Princeton, submits to us an article entitled "Dairying is Big Business" which would be of interest throughout this area. Much emphasis will be played on dairying this year, as Dairy Day has been set for May 5. The North Texas Jersey Cattle Club will hold their annual show and sale in McKinney next Fall, in connection with our Collin County Fair.

The article, submitted by Mr. Mantooth, explains the value of dairying to the county, which we passed on to our readers as follows:

Collin County farmers no longer break their backs fight-Johnson grass to grow cotton for money to buy Johnson grass hay for their cows. The advent of mechanized and specialized agriculture has lengthened the cycle. Now "Old Bossy" eats the grass and converts it into a highly marketable commodity. This remarktable ability to transform raw materials grown on the farmers soil into a product important to every man, woman, and child has won her the title of the real queen of the American countryside. While performing her role of foster-mother of the human race she brings in about one-fifth of the National farm income, provides more than a quarter of the Nation's food supply and creates employment for about one-seventh of our people.

What does all this mean to Collin County? We do not find a milk cow on every farm as in years past and cows are no longer kept in town. Consumers now depend on the professional dairymen for this health giving food. In our county there are approximately 105 Grade A dairies. Most of these are family enterprises; however a high percentage of them hire extra help full time or at least part of the time. So some two hundred families are entirely or partially dependent on dairying. Basing our figures on last year's average production about $1,149,750 worth of milk was sold by these dairies, and the figure will probably be higher this year. A stream with $3,000 flowing in daily makes a mighty pretty ripple. Economists figures that for each $1.00 worth of milk sold $11.00 worth of industry is generated. At that rate Collin County dairymen light the fuse that sets off an $11,000,000 spending spree. That surely must help a lot of people to make a living.

Who said how do you account for that? Let us start with the glass of milk you drank or should have drunk this morning. What happens from the time it leaves the cow until it reaches your table? Some of us can remember when it cost very little to produce our milk. It was simply milked into a syrup or lard bucket, strained through a clean cloth into a covered pail to be lowered into the well for cooling. I might add that it tasted pretty good when the well was deep enough and we did grow some pretty hardy people in this manner. How ever as progress comes to verything milk production and processing were no exception. Thanks to science and research mother can now give her baby a truly perfect food. Nowdays there is more to milking cows than just sitting on your haunches waiting to be kicked or have a tail full of cockle-burrs slammed on your cold face. Modern dairying involves directly or indirectly people from nearly all walks of life. Manufacturers, dealers, farmers, and all sorts of labor derive specific benefits from the almost endless chain of spending. Beautify it as you will the dairyman sees very little of the glamour as he wakes up at three or four o'clock in the morning still sore and stiff from yesterday's work of riding a tractor pulling a hay baler, ensilage cutter, or some other implement. Or maybe he drove his truck into town for a load of feed, fertilizer or seed. Even if he does grow the pasture and roughage on his farm, it must be supplemented with grain and protiens such as cottonseed meal. First he drives several thousand dollars worth of cows that have just been bloodtested by a veternarian to a barn built according to specifications set up by the State Health Department and that is regularly inspected by one of their staff. Smooth concrete floors, hot and cold running water, steel vats and various other pieces of esuipment are required for the very best in sanitation. The cows are milked with an electric milker which has been thoroughly cleansed in a commercial chlorine solution. Then the milk goes through a strainer into cans to be placed in an electric cooler for milk of best quality must be rapidly cooled to 40 degrees. After cooling the milk is picked up by the hauler in his expensive insulated truck so that it will still be under 50 degrees when it reaches the plant. A truck on this kind of a haul surely uses a lot of tires, gasoline, repairs and etc. At the plant that cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to build and equip and that employs hundreds of people, the milk is pasturized, homogenized, and processed by the very finest of mechanisms and instruments that only craftsmen could build. This insures a pure product to be put in a sterile carton or bottle. Then the cases of milk are loaded on a refrigerated truck and brought to your grocer's specially built dairy case in top condition to safe guard your health. So remember, Mom, when Junior drinks that extra glass of milk not only does he increase his chances of a long healthful life, but he also adds to the economy so essential for a growing healthy nation.

Vaccine Free To School Tots; $4 Shot To Others

Collin County Medical Society members held a meeting here recently at which time they agreed to give the Salk vaccine at $4 per shot. Other cities have advertised the vaccine at $5 per shot, but Collin physicians have decided at the $4 price.

The vaccine should be available within a short time for persons who do not receive the free shots at the clinics, which will be set up in the county next week. All first and second graders will be given the shots free. However older children will have to pay for their immunization. The vaccine is administered twice, three or four weeks apart, with a booster shot about seven months later.

The clinic to be set up in McKinney for immunizing the first and second graders, will open Tuesday morning at 9:15 o'clock at Caldwell Gymnasium. The children will go to their regular schools, from which point they will be transported to the gym in school buses, and then back to school. Three nurses and five doctors will be on hand to look after the youngsters, as well as their teachers.

Supt. Hailds Pearce announces parents may accompany the children if they wish, but it is not necessary as they will be well taken care of. He also states that the parental requests which have been sent out for signature, must be returned to the child's teacher by Tuesday morning if the child is to receive the vaccine. The immunization is not compulsory, however in most of the schools, the requests have come in almost a hundred percent, according to the superintendent.

"There are now in McKinney 1 downtown first run theater, 1 other theatre and 1 drive-in, representing an investlent in the thousands (or hundreds of thousands). The theaters have become an important factor in creating life and trade in our community. Within the last year many of the theatres have made extensive mechanical improvements in order to present the recently developed technical advancements . . . wide screen, CinemaScope, sterephonic sound, etc.

"While the motion picture business in this city may seem rather small, it is one of the most important factors in the life of McKinney," says Mayor West. "The Rowley Theatres (alone) have 30 of full time employees and many young men and women on a part time basis get their first business training in our theatres. There is probably no business that reaches such a large portion of our public. A city without the movies would be a dreary place, indeed. The men and women who keep these theatres running night and day, holidays included, deserve this recognition.

"The movie theatres always have taken a leading part in any civic or patriotic activity in which they could be of service," said Mayor West in proclaming "May is Movie Month in McKinney.

CLEANER FARMS . . . FEWER FLIES

Now is the time to get ride of the winter's accumulation of trash and junk. Nature is replacnig winter's bleak landscape with the soft green grass on renewing life of spring and needs your cooperation to complete the job.

If every farm family would conduct a cleanup campaign at home —inside and out—it would help eliminate fire and accident hazzards, make a home a safer place in which to live, and result in happier and more productive workday, says the Texas farm and Ranch Safety Committee.

Farm fires take a heavy toll of life and property each year in the nation, about 3,000 lives and $139,000,000 worth of property. Both figures could be reduced, believes the committee, with good "housekeeping." Cleaner farms will mean fewer flies.

Inspection, they say, is the first step in fire prevention. Remove the hazards which may cause fires and accidents and ask the neighbors to cooperate in a community cleanup campaign.

Secondly, points out the committee, stop taking fire risks. Careless smoking habits and the misuse of matches are major causes of fire. Too, kerosene or other flammable liquid should never be used stoves, ranges or fireplaces. Be sure flammable liquids are safely stored and away from farm buildings.

During the cleanup campaign if trash is burned, pick a still day for burning and have help and equipment handy in case it is needed. Then be sure the fire is out before leaving it unattended.

APPLY EARLY FOR COTTON CLASSIFICATION AND MARKET NEWS SERVICE

Farmers will follow the same procedure as last year in obtaining cotton classification and market news services in 1955 under the Smith-Doxey Act, the U. S. Department of Agrisulture announces.

Cotton growers are urged to prepare and submit their applications as soon as cotton has been planted and well in advance of ing the ginning season. Those not filing may fail to obtain the classification of cotton ginned early in the season, as time is required for groups to make arrangements for having samples taken and submitted to the classing office.

Samples submitted under this program are to be cut from both sides of the bale by a bonded sampler or by an employee of a public warehouse or compress which is issued negotiable warehouse receipts.

Applications must be filed with a field office of the Cotton Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, as soon as possible after all members have planted their cotton, but not later than August 1.

Cotton classes for member of improvement group under the Smith-Doxey Act for the 1954 crop will exceed 10,000,000 bales, or 74 percent of the total crop.

Instructions and application blanks may be obtained from the Agricultural Marketing Service, Cotton Division, Room 506 U. S. Terminal Annex Building, Dallas, 22, Texas.

RIO, NEW NON-SHATTERING SESAME VARIETY READY

Rio, a new non-shattering variety of sesame described as "completely adapted to mechanical harvesting" soon will be available to farmers.

Released jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experimental Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Rio is now in the hands of certified growers and seed in quantity should be available for planting this fall.

Rio is better adapted to Texas growing condition than other strains of non-shattering sesame but is expected to serve only until better varieties are developed in an extensive sesame breeding program, says experiment station research scientists.

Rio can be cut with a windrower, allowed to dry and then combinined directly from the windrow.

Seed yield in experimental plantings at College Station have ranged up to 1,489 an acre under favorable growing conditions. It produces slightly higher yields under favorable conditions and lower yields under poor conditions than the shattering types. It also matures later than the shattering varieties now grown in Texas.

At some locations, the new variety has been resistent to Alternaria leaf spot but it shows no resistence to bacterial leaf spot.

The oil content in Rio is acceptible to the oilseed processing industry, averaging about 49 percent. The crude protein content of the meal also is favorable. Meal remaining after oil extraction averages approximatrly 55 percent crude protein.

Water In Lavon Reaches All-Time High

Lavon Lake, a great pool of water in East Collin Sunday stood at the highest level since it was built almost two years ago.

Water lapped at the 71.3-foot gauge marker behind the 2-mile-long dam near Wylie as the Army Corps of Engineers reported that 44 billion gallons of water are now in the great East Fork lake.

This 44 billion gallons, it was pointed out, is 11 billion gallons more than the combined supplies now behind the dams at Grapevine, Lake Dallas and Garza-Little Elm.

Lavon is the lake which, in 1956, will start sending water to Dallas and Garland, Mesquite, Rockwall, Royce City, McKinney, Plano, Princeton, Forney, Wylie and Farmersville.

Giant water storage tanks currently are being built near these towns, the first three being spotted near Dallas, Mesquite and Garland.

Location of the Lavon drainage basin in an area which normally bets from 10 to 15 more inches of moisture than the lake basins west of Dallas is the season adtvanced for Lavon's mounting water pool.

"It just rains a lot more over here," explained Wylie Banker C. Truett Smith, a director of the 10-town North Texas Municipal Water District.

Mrs. Moseley accompanies Mr. Moseley on business trips and Sharon takes the responsibility of running the home and caring for her brothers.

In the county contest on April 2 Sharon and Doris Smith won first place in the county contest for cooking cheese chops. In this demonstration, they prepared cheese chops from cheese, crackers and eggs to look like meat chops and then fried them to a golden brown. MRS. ROBERT CRARY KRIEGH

A beautiful wedding was solemnized Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist Church when Miss Bettye Jean Travillion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deb Travillion, 507 North Church Street, became the bride of Robert Crary Kriegh, son of Mrs. Marcella C. Kriegh, 406 North Benge Street.

Dr. Charles E. Myers, pastor of the church, officiated with the double-ring ceremony. An embankment of palms and ferns upon the altar, flanked with standards holding white tapers, formed the background for the arch, with baskets of white mums and stock on either side.

Mrs. Walter Coleman, of Dallas, cousin of the bridegroom, sang as prenuptial solos "I Love Thee" and "Because," and for the closing prayer, sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Paul Wilson was her accompanist at the organ, also playing the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in frost white Chantilly lace and grossomer nylon tulle, over satin. The formal wedding gown was fashioned with a molded bodice of lace, with portrait neckline and yoke of illustion. The long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands and tiny buttons fastened the back of the bodice. The bouffant skirt was layers of tulle, with full gathered peplum at the back. The long veil of French illusion was caught to a coronet of seedpearls, and she carried a bride's bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis, with satin streamers.

Miss Shirley Reddell was her maid of honor, while Misses Helen McCullar, of Austin, Martha Mullins and Sara Lovell, of Dallas, were bridesmaids. Nancy Travillion, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore identical frocks of ice blue tuile over taffeta, made ballerina length. They were fashioned with swooping necklines with soft rolls of tulle coming to points in the back and the full skirts were worn over layers of petticoats. Each carried a basket of white shasta daisies tied with blue satin bows.

C. A. Kriegh, of St. Louis, Mo., attended his brother as best man while groomsmen and ushers were Lee Beverly, Jackie Woods, Monty Nitcholas and Johnnie Mac Odle.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's colors of blue and white were used upon the refreshment table. The fan shaped arrangement of stock, carnations and candy tuff centered the table, while at each corner were light blue maline bows, centered with tiny white wedding bells. White candles were used on either side of the floral arrangement.

The tiered wedding cake and frozen punch were served by Mrs H. L. Ball, Mrs. M. M. Strickland, Miss Marilee Powell, Miss Margaret Neal, Miss Pat LaRoe, Miss Betty Niell, Miss Ann Finney, Miss Mary June Speck, Miss Fletcher Anderson, Mrs. Pat Murphy and Mrs. Carl Ostrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Kriegh left for a wedding trip to Austin. For traveling the bride wore a beige linen suit with straight skirt and box jacket, and beige and white striped blouse. Her accessories were brown and beige, her small hat being trimmed in rhinestone buttons. The couple will return to McKinney to reside at 301 North Church Street.

She wore the frock over starched net petticoats, and her hat, slippers and other accessories were in pale pink. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Mrs. Kriegh, mother of the bridegroom, wore a lace dress of dusty rose with matching jacket and a small violet-covered hat. Her accessoires were in lavender and she wore for her corsage, an orchid.
